*Information from individual resources website

- Hands-on experience and service-learning -- applying classroom learning to real world situations
- Social activities -- attend sporting events, plays, or speakers on campus; have dinners with each other and professors; just hang out with each other
- Community service projects -- get involved and help the community*

Helps you navigate your adventures at Iowa State. When you are unsure where to go for help or when the unexpected occurs in your life, the staff in Student Assistance and Outreach is available to provide support and information about university resources.*

Student Disability Resources is a unit in the Dean of Students Office responsible for coordinating reasonable accommodations for ISU students with documented disabilities.*

Helps students enhance their academic and personal well-being. SCS provides prevention, intervention, information and referral services to Iowa State students. These services are available to help students sort through their feelings, strengths, and options to develop new perspectives and coping skills.*

Provides information about Study abroad options to all ISU students including international students.

Provides information and variety of services that addresses an individual’s overall well-being.

Undergraduate ISU students from any discipline can collaborate with trained peer tutors to explore and develop self-awareness and self-sufficiency with written, oral, visual, and electronic communication.*
